

ANOINTED UNIVERSITY WORLDWIDE HONORARY DOCTORATE DEGREE POLICY

Introduction:

The Anointed University Honorary Doctorate Degree Policy outlines the criteria, procedures, and guidelines for awarding honorary doctorate degrees to individuals who have made significant contributions to their respective fields or society as a whole. This policy ensures that the university maintains a high standard of recognition for exceptional achievements and upholds its reputation as an institution of academic excellence.

Criteria for Selection:

1. Distinction: The candidate should have achieved a distinguished level of excellence in their field, demonstrating outstanding accomplishments, leadership, and innovation.
2. Impact: The candidate's contributions should have had a significant and positive impact on society, making a lasting difference in their respective field or in the broader community.
3. Alignment: The candidate's work should align with the values and mission of the university, promoting excellence, diversity, inclusivity, and social responsibility.
4. Reputation: The candidate should have a reputation for integrity, ethical conduct, and professionalism.

Nomination and Selection Process:

1. Nominations: Nominations for honorary doctorate degrees may be submitted by university faculty, staff, alumni, or other individuals who are familiar with the candidate's achievements and contributions.
2. Evaluation: A committee, appointed by the university administration, will review the nominations and assess the candidates' eligibility based on the established criteria.
3. Deliberation: The committee will deliberate and make recommendations to the university administration regarding the selection of honorary doctorate recipients.
4. Approval: The final decision regarding the awarding of honorary doctorate degrees rests with the university administration, who will consider the committee's recommendations and ensure due diligence in the decision-making process.

Conferral and Recognition:

1. Convocation Ceremony: Honorary doctorate degrees are typically conferred during the university's convocation ceremony, providing a public platform to celebrate the accomplishments of the recipients.
2. Citation: Each honorary doctorate recipient will be presented with a citation that highlights their achievements and contributions, emphasising their impact on their respective field and society.
3. Privileges and Benefits: Honorary doctorate recipients may be entitled to certain privileges, such as access to Anointed university facilities, libraries, and participation in academic events, as determined by the Anointed university administration.
4. Public Recognition: The Anointed university will actively promote the achievements and contributions of the honorary doctorate recipients through various communication channels, acknowledging their association with the institution.
5. Financial Commitment: Each honorary doctorate recipients must make a substantial financial commitment towards the Doctorate Gown and Award Formalities.

Conclusion:

The Anointed University Honorary Doctorate Degree Policy ensures that the process of awarding honorary doctorate degrees is fair, transparent, and aligned with the university's mission and values. By recognising individuals who have made exceptional contributions to their fields, the Anointed university demonstrates its commitment to excellence and fosters a culture of inspiration and achievement.